Species of spaces in Skateboarding

A film by Raphael Zarka, 2008, 40 min.

Drawn from about 40 skateboarding videos or films shot between 1964 and 2006, Raphaël Zarka sets a cataloguing of skateboarding realms outlining the relation between 'as found' spaces (as those appropriated by the skateboarders) and spaces especially designed and built for the same practice.

Monuments

A film by Redmond Entwistle, 2009, 29 min.

In a fictional narrative, the artists Robert Smithson and Gordon Matta-Clark are revived from the dead and ejected from their makeshift mausoleums in New York by the forces of redevelopment.

Led through New Jersey by a young Dan Graham, they debate their artistic positions with the 'non-actors' they encounter at the sites of their work.
